The Plight of a Congressman.

"The situation of the distinguished Congressman from this district is becoming desperate, and yesterday's papers announced that he had rushed back to Washington to appeal to the President to give him some sort of letter of indorsement that might check the tide of opposition that will unquestionably end in his defeat. At the very beginning he threw down the gauntlet to Mr. Thomas on the Hobson resolution, and when the Bourbon candidate as quickly announced that it was the people's right to rule in this country, and that if elected to Congress he would vote to permit the people to decide this matter of tremendous importance to them, the Scott county Congressman tucked tail, ran back to Washington and begged the Committee on Rules to place the Hobson resolution on its passage, in order that it might be defeated and he could return and say to the people of the Seventh District: "Why there is no such measure pending. It was long ago defeated. It is not now an issue in this contest." It must be remembered that a majority of the House at Washington favors the Hobson resolution, but to pass it requires a vote of two-thirds in the affirmative.

"What happened? When the anxious Congressman got together the Committee on Rules, of which he was a member, nine were present, and five Democrats voted against taking up the measure at this time because Representative Hobson had requested that it should not be considered until next fall when he believed a majority of two-thirds would vote in its favor. Four members of the Committee voted for immediate action, two being Republicans and two Democrats, one of these being Representative Cantrill. All of the Republicans present voted with our Congressman, and of seven Democrats, only one would come to his rescue.

"Returning to his district a sad but wiser Congressman, he remained only a few days when, realizing the unmistakable movement of sentiment in favor of Mr. Thomas, he slips away again, this time to beg help of the President in favor of his waning cause. We hardly believe the President would give a letter to Mr. Cantrill as against Mr. Thomas. The latter was a Woodrow Wilson follower when Cantrill was bitterly fighting the Governor of New Jersey for the Presidential nomination. But if the President should listen to Cantrill's appeal it would send Thomas to Congress by the biggest majority ever given in this district. Mr. Thomas is fighting for the moral well-being of this district and of Kentucky. He is fighting single handed, and without the help or sympathy of politicians or politicians. He has none of the commanding influence of a member of Congress, and has no office to give and none to promise, but he stands for a great principle in public and private life, and behind that principle stands the immense body of Democratic voters, who neither ask nor desire office, but who are for the right, who insist upon fair play, and who intend to have a divorce of politics from the liquor business.

"Congressman Cantrill is on the run. He has exposed his losing hand. Claude M. Thomas will be the next Congressman from this district."

—Winchester Sun.

See the Agricultural Train.

On July 15th the Agricultural College and Experiment Station will send from Lexington an agricultural special train which will traverse Eastern Kentucky. This section is not so well adapted to crops that require broad acres but there is no better section on earth for the production of choice fruit and for poultry raising. Considering these facts the train is to be especially equipped to give instruction regarding the raising of fruits and vegetables and in poultry production.

The Bureau of Forestry at Washington has become interested in the proposition and is lending exhibits, etc., and there will be men to lecture on various phases of the forest interests.

It is a sad fact that Eastern Kentucky fails to produce enough food products to supply its own people and one object of the special train is to awaken an interest in providing a better assortment and greater quantity of fruits and vegetables for home consumption as well as for export. If this state of affairs can be brought about, the drain upon the money earnings of the average family will be lessened and an additional source of revenue provided.

Everybody is welcome to visit this train, see the exhibits and hear the lectures. It will be at

Torment at 4:00 p. m. on July 23; Stanton at 5:00 p. m. on July 23; Clay City at 6:45 p. m. on July 23 and at 8:00 a. m. on July 24, and will stay for about an hour and a half at each place.

A Mystery.

From some unexplainable cause the figures in a local reader for Hardwick and Company got jumbled up and made the prices they were intending to make on different articles unreasonably high. The same thing also happened in a local of another merchant in which prices were quoted. These ads first appeared right, but later the figures were changed in a manner unknown to those who work in this shop. We shall try to keep a little closer lookout in this particular in the future, and try to learn where the trouble comes in.

In Christian county 2000 voters signed a petition calling for a local option election in that county. This is possibly the largest petition ever presented a County Judge in this State to be voted upon.

The official reports of the two banks of this county appear in this issue. They each are good reports and should inspire a continuation of confidence in our people for both of these solid institutions.

H. L. Twyman, of Winchester, is spending a few days with relatives of this place.

Thomas Speaks in Powell.

The Hon. Claude Thomas, candidate for Congress, spoke at Stanton Monday afternoon and in this city Monday night to interested hearers. Mr. Thomas made splendid speeches and they were well received. His manner of address is very mild, pleasing and possessed of the dignity becoming a Congressman. He was well pleased with his prospects in this county which we still claim will go two to one for Thomas. In fact, there is said to be not more than six Democrats at Stanton for Mr. Cantrill and we are sure the Thomas men in Clay City are very largely in the majority.

Molly Ruth, the little ten year old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. M. Byrd, of Winchester, died at a Frankfort hospital Friday. All that physicians could do to save the bright little child was done.

Rev. Byrd is a minister of the Saints church, and has done considerable preaching for the Saints in this section.

The drouth continues with us. Grass is getting very short and corn crops on hill land are perishing for the want of rain. The oat crop which is a good one this year has been harvested in fine condition. Early corn is being seriously injured on account of the dry weather just as the corn is beginning to shoot and tassels.

George W. Bush, of Vaughn's Mill, merchant and postmaster, has bought J. F. Ware's stock of goods. This leaves but two stores now at Vaughn's Mill, the other store being the Farmer's Union Store now being conducted by Ernest Highley at the old Mize stand.

At her home in this city Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. W. T. Adams fell and sustained a broken jaw bone. Dr. Williams set the fractured bone and Mrs. Adams is now doing as well as could be expected, considering her age and the seriousness of the injury.

Don't fail to see our laces and embroideries. Mrs. J. W. Williams.

Bert Barnett, of R. 1, Mt. Sterling, spent a few days with his brother, W. F. Barnett, near the city, and his sister, Mrs. Henry King, of Vaughn's Mill.

Melvin Gravett, of Vaughn's Mill, is suffering from some form of abscess on his face, and his condition is causing his folks some alarm.

Shoes for all the family at Williams'.

THE DIFFERENCE.

After a thorough study of Congressman Cantrill's speech at Lexington, which he has had printed and scattered broadcast, the Times interprets his policy in the platform accredited him below. Likewise, after a thorough study of Thomas' speech in this city July 6th, we place to his credit the platform below under his name.

CANTRILL'S PLATFORM.

1st. Favors the Government licensing liquor dealers in dry territory.

2nd. Favors the shipment of liquor into dry territory from other dry territory. (This will perpetuate the saloon in dry territory under the pretense of the saloon doing an interstate business only.)

3rd. Opposes, under heavy fine, the shipment of liquor from wet territory into dry territory. (The effect of this to be to force all the trade from one dry section to the saloons in other dry territory and thus insure their eternity through the acts of a systematic reciprocity which will surely follow.)

4th. Opposes the people having an opportunity to change the Constitution of the United States so that the manufacture, importation and transportation of liquor for sale may be prohibited by three-fourths vote of the States.

THOMAS' PLATFORM.

1st. Opposes the Government licensing liquor dealers in dry territory.

2nd. Opposes the shipment of liquor from both wet and dry territory into dry territory.

3rd. Favors the people having an opportunity to change the Constitution of the United States by three-fourths vote of the States, so as to prohibit the manufacture, importation and transportation of liquor for sale in the United States.

WHICH ARE YOU FOR?

76 Years Young.

Governor James Bennett McCreary is 76 years old today, or rather, one should say, 76 years "young," for like Lillian Russell he seems to have discovered the Fountain of Eternal Youth, which Ponce-de-Leon searched for in vain. At any rate the latest pictures of the Governor, which are appearing in the newspapers now, show him looking as young as when he was the State's Chief Executive thirty-five years ago. If this doesn't prove that the Governor has bathed in the fabled fountain, it has at any rate had the effect of convincing his friends that he has not superannuated by any manner of means. Gladstone was still a power in public life at 80, and the friends of the Madison county statesman aver that he, too, is like old wine—improves with age.—Ex.

Some Democrats are awfully afraid of getting a prohibition plank in the party platform. They say it will kill the party forever. Kansas never but once elected a Democratic Governor. He was elected then over a Republican because the Republican said he would wink at the prohibition laws of Kansas, and the Democratic nominee said he would enforce the prohibition laws of the State. A Republican Governor has twice been elected in Tennessee for the sole reason that he was true to the cause of prohibition and the Democratic nominee was not.

Our observation is that the party indorsing prohibition always gets the votes. Prohibition is the strongest drawing card that can be placed in any party platform.

So long as the Government allows the shipment of liquor into local option territory, just so long will the liquor question be a national issue.

Company's Bad Too.

In defending his record as a whiskey man in Congress, Mr. Cantrill says:

"I am standing by my leaders; I am standing by the great Senator from Kentucky, the Honorable Ollie James, one of the greatest orators in the American Congress, and one of closest friends of the President in Washington today."

He also stood toe to toe with Bradley, Republican Senator, and against five Democratic Congressmen from Kentucky, while he was with only three others.

Ollie James, when in Congress, introduced a bill to prohibit the shipment of liquor into local option territory, and his stand that way beat Paynter, his opponent, off the track, but just as soon as he had an opportunity to vote for the legislation he introduced, he changed and voted a straight whiskey vote. Why did Ollie change? Cantrill voted with this changed man and boasts of it. Where is the honor in doing so? And Ollie James will be defeated when his time comes just as Cantrill will be defeated, now that his time is here.

The surest way to kill a political party is to foster upon it rotten nominees. There are a number of good people allied with a party that will no longer tolerate rascals even in the important offices of our country. In making nominations no candidate should be voted for unless we are sure they can poll the full support of the party and can win. Very objectionable men should always be avoided by any party, and particularly is this now true with the Democratic party.

The Fourth passed off very quietly in this city and everybody seemed to enjoy the day in their usual business way. The bank and postoffice however, observed the day.

Dr. Green, dentist, has opened up an office in the Red River Hotel where he is now prepared to do all kinds of dental work. The Doctor is thinking of permanently locating here.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce Claude M. Thomas as a candidate for Congress, from the Seventh Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. Election to be held Saturday, August 1, 1914.

Cantrill is attempting to deceive the temperance people. He promised them when in the race two years ago that he would vote to prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry territory. Listen to his exact words:

"I have stood up before the temperance people and pledged them that I would vote for a bill that would prohibit carrying liquor into a dry territory."

He gets out of it by saying that he voted for the Davis amendment. Listen to Cantrill's exact words again:

"The Davis Amendment said that the man in wet territory who shipped liquor into dry territory should be fined from one hundred to five thousand dollars and imprisoned from thirty days to two years in the penitentiary. I voted for that amendment."

In the first place it was not expected that this amendment would pass. Look at it how deceptive it is. It says you cannot ship liquor from wet territory into dry territory. It did not say it should be unlawful to ship liquor from dry territory into dry territory. Thus you see had this amendment become a law, a man in one dry state with Government license, which he did not attempt to prohibit, could ship all the liquor he chose into another dry state, Kentucky, being surrounded by two dry states, Tennessee and West Virginia, could have gotten all the liquor it wanted.

Again after the defeat of the Davis amendment, he had a vote on the Webb Kenyon bill and he voted against it. The Webb-Kenyon bill does prohibit in the State laws prohibit. It provides that the Federal law shall be in force as the State law is in force. The Webb-Kenyon bill has not been declared unconstitutional as some of the wets tell you; on the contrary it has been upheld by the courts. The defect of this law is in the defect of the State laws. The Webb-Kenyon bill allows liquor shipped only on the same conditions that the State law allows it, but as the State law allows the shipment of liquor for private use, so does the Federal law. If the State law forbids the shipment of any liquor whatsoever, so would the Webb-Kenyon law. The object of the bill is to extend State rights a little further; just what Cantrill says he is for, yet he doesn't vote that way.

When the Democrats of the State met at Louisville three years ago to make a platform for McCreary to run on for Governor, and they inserted a temperance plank, the whiskey men talked as Cantrill now talks, they said it meant defeat for the Democrats. McCreary stuck to his temperance platform. Judge O'Neil, his Republican opponent, also a temperance man, got mixed up one Sunday morning with a big distiller at Owensboro, as all our readers know. Did prohibition then kill the Democratic party? Well, hardly. McCreary carried the State by 31,000 majority. The people of Kentucky want prohibition: the whole people of this country want prohibition, and it is fast coming. All the people want is a vote on the question. Cantrill says he opposes the people having any say so about it. Thomas says let the people have a say-so. If you want to vote for an autocrat, cast your ballot for Cantrill; if you want to vote for a Democrat, cast your vote for Thomas.

Why did Mr. Cantrill favor the election of Bradley for U. S. Senator six years ago over Mr. Beckham, the Democratic nominee? Because Bradley would vote and did vote exactly as Mr. Cantrill voted on the most important legislation ever before Congress.

There are sixteen Democratic papers in this Congressional district, and eleven of these are supporting Mr. Thomas, 'tis said. It is also said that the vote in the primary will, or should be, at the same ratio as the newspaper supporters.
